

Boath House Wine List

After much deliberation, debate and study the decision was made that we would construct our wine list by the style of wine as oppose country and region or grape variety. It was agreed that this approach would lend itself to ease of use and aid those who find the world of wine a little confusing. The white and red section of the list is split into groups with a brief description of what can be expected from the wines within each group. It begins with lighter styles, getting heavier as the list goes on. It would be naive of us to attempt to describe each of our wines with such brevity, please use this as a guide and not a literal description. We have complete confidence in all the wines listed. Quality wines are complex so you can expect a lot more from the wines than described by each heading. You will also find however that the producer, region, country and grape variety are all listed if you prefer to take that approach to your selection.

Our aim with this list is to offer variety and value for money. There are many wines that come from smaller, lesser known producers who will surprise you with both the quality and price of their wines. You will also find wines from better known producers who have consistently produced top quality wines for many years. We do not want to dictate to you which wines you should pick, trying something new however is always encouraged. If you require any assistance please do not hesitate to ask.

We aim to deliver all wines to you in the best condition possible. Any wines that are out of condition will always be replaced. Vintages listed are accurate, if changes occur notification will be given. White wines will not be served too cold and reds will not be served too warm. If you have a particular way in which you like your wines to be served then please let us know.

Wines which are out of stock are marked with a black dot

The list begins with Champagnes and sparkling wines by the bottle, half bottle. Aperitifs and wines by the glass follow. We then move to whites, reds and half bottles. Sweet wines and port can be found at the end.
